

Philip Genty is a Clinical Professor of Law, Columbia University School of Law

B.A., Colorado College, 1977; J.D., New York University, 1980. Worked as an attorney at Prisoners' Legal Services of New York; the New York City Department of Housing, Preservation and Development; and the Bedford-Stuyvesant Community Legal Services Corporation. Joined the faculty of Brooklyn Law School in 1987; taught legal writing and a seminar on the rights of prisoners. Joined the Columbia faculty in 1989. Serves on the Advisory Group of the Federal Resource Center for Children of Prisoners. Has consulted on legal resource materials for incarcerated parents and works with several organizations that assist women prisoners. Research and teaching interests are in prisoners' rights, family law, appellate advocacy, and professional responsibility.

More info: <http://www.law.columbia.edu/>

Peter Rosenblum is a Clinical Professor in Human Rights, Columbia University School of Law

A.B., Columbia, 1982; J.D., Northwestern, 1986; LL.M., Columbia, 1992; D.E.A. with distinction, University of Paris I (Panthéon-Sorbonne), 1992. Associate in international trade, Baker & McKenzie, 1985-88. Adjunct professor, Fordham University Department of Social Sciences, 1989. Staff attorney, Lawyers Committee for Human Rights, 1989-91. In-country human rights advisor, based in Romania, International Human Rights Law Group, 1992-93. Consultant, Human Rights Watch/Africa Watch, 1992-93. Program director, International Human Rights Law Group. Human Rights Officer, United Nations Human Rights Center, Switzerland, 1995-96. Joined the Human Rights Program at Harvard in the fall of 1996 and served as associate director until 2002, when he became clinical director. Held an academic appointment as lecturer at Harvard Law School and oversaw voluntary and for-credit human rights projects with students. Member, International Advisory Council, Swedish NGO Foundation for Human Rights; UN Secretary General's Resource Group on the Democratic Republic of the Congo; Harvard University Committee on African Studies; advisory board of Buffalo Human Rights Law Review. He has engaged in human rights research and field missions in Africa, Eastern Europe, and Asia. His recent writing addresses human rights topics affecting Africa and human rights pedagogy in the United States.

More info: <http://www.law.columbia.edu/>